Dear Sir/Madam

Following numerous attempts in calling this morning to request support in objecting to the requested extended drinking hours for the above dwelling.

Having called and spoke to the new owner about the noise generated within the beer garden to the rear of the property and now they have added additional seating for their patrons to use, the noise in the evening has increased to a an anti social level of shouting, swearing, screaming and cackling.

As this has and still has been going on for sometime and I know from other tenants in the area where they have shouted out their windows for the patrons to shut up, it would appear there is little if any inspection from staff of this inconvenience being made.

As a business in this climate we can appreciate the need for extended hours, but if the noise can not be managed then this would generate more noise and when the bar closes even later than currently the surrounding tenants would/could be awoken from their sleep.

Kind Regards

Aberdeen
