

Aberdeen City Health and Social Care Partnership: Equality Outcomes and Mainstreaming Framework 2021-25

Mainstreaming the equality duty has several benefits including:

equality becomes part of the structures, behaviours and culture of an authority, an authority knows and can demonstrate how, in carrying out its functions, it is promoting equality mainstreaming equality contributes to continuous improvement and better performance.

Source: Equality and Human Rights Commission

The successful implementation of Aberdeen City Health and Social Care Partnership's (ACHSCP's) Equality Outcome and Mainstreaming Framework (EOMF) will be supported by a network of DiversCity Officers, who in addition to their day to day tasks, will have a lead role in supporting their colleagues evidence compliance with equality and human rights legislation and other requirements as a way of continually improving the quality of life outcomes for people using health and social care services.

In addition, a quality assurance and performance framework is to be implemented to give the Strategic Planning Group (SPG) and the Integration Joint Board (IJB) assurance that compliance with the Public Sector Equality Duty and the Scottish Specific Public Sector Equality Duties are being complied with. This framework will enable self-evaluation and continuous improvement models to be embedded as well as reporting performance quarterly to the SPG, annually to the IJB and biannually to the Scottish Parliament's appointed Equality and Human Rights Regulator.

The Independent Review of Adult Social Care in Scotland (Feeley, February 2021) identified that "the Covid-19 pandemic has intensified pre-existing inequalities and a lack of focus on rights, especially for older people, disabled people, people from minority ethnic communities and people from disadvantaged communities". This framework has been designed to assist AHSCP to deliver against recommendations 1 to 10 of the Feeley report, which are detailed below.

Independent Review of Adult Social Care in Scotland – Recommendations

Independent Review of Adult Social Care - gov.scot \(www.gov.scot\)

A human rights based approach

Our (the Independent Review of Adult Social Care in Scotland report) recommendations for establishing a human rights and equality approach to social care services and support are rooted in the work to consider incorporation of international treaties into domestic legislation, and the recent experiences during the pandemic that exposed structural inequalities and pre-existing inadequacies in the current social care support system:

1. Human rights, equity and equality must be placed at the very heart of social care and be mainstreamed and embedded. This could be further enabled by the incorporation of human rights conventions.
2. Delivering a rights based system in practice must become consistent, intentional and evident in the everyday experience of everyone using social care support, unpaid carers and families, and people working in the social care support and social work sector.
3. People must be able to access support at the point they feel they need it, including for advice and signposting to local community-based resources and help, and for barriers to this, such as the current eligibility criteria and charging regime, to be fundamentally reformed and removed, to allow a greater emphasis on prevention and early intervention.
4. People should understand better what their rights are to social care and supports, and “duty bearers”, primarily social workers, should be focused on realising those rights rather than being hampered in the first instance by considerations of eligibility and cost.
5. Where not all needs can be met that have been identified as part of a co-production process of developing a support plan, these must be recorded as unmet needs and fed into the strategic commissioning process.
6. Informal, community based services and supports must be encouraged, supported and funded to respond appropriately to the needs of local citizens, including for preventative and low level support.
7. A co-production and supportive process involving good conversations with people needing support should replace assessment processes that make decisions over people’s heads and must enable a full exploration of all self-directed support options that does not start from the basis of available funding. Giving people as much choice and control over their support and care is critical.
8. More independent advocacy and brokerage services, including peer services, must be made available to people to ensure that their voices are heard, and to help prepare for participation in planning and organising their support.
9. When things do not work well for people and their rights have not been upheld, they must have rapid recourse to an effective complaints system and to redress.
10. Packages of care and support plans must be made more portable and supported people should not have to fight to retain support because they have moved home.

Outcome 1 Improved accessibility and confidence in using health and social care services.
