6. REPORT

6.1 Background

6.1.1 Historically tied housing was provided to janitorial and school grounds staff within the Council. Predominantly janitors took up occupancy of the lodge house attached to the school to which they were appointed as janitor and provided the services required to that building.

6.2 Present Position

6.2.1 Over time the above practice has changed to meet evolving needs, most recently, with the establishment of a city wide Facilities Management Service. Staff work in groups and cover a number of buildings and service needs. As janitorial staff are no longer appointed to a single school site, it is less likely that the members of facilities staff resident in any particular lodge house will be required to have specific duties only with regard to the school the lodge is attached to.

Many of the Facilities staff resident in tied houses across the city remain on call out lists and/or hold keys for, and provide a first contact emergency response with respect to, the Education property to which the tied house is attached. It should be noted that janitorial staff who do not reside in tied houses are also required to undertake on call and response duties. It is no longer deemed necessary that houses and their occupancy are tied to the adjacent buildings (in this case, schools).

There are a number of tied houses that are presently unoccupied. The properties and their respective present occupancy statuses are detailed below:
